

HOW TO GET ONLINE

Being online means using the internet. Most people do that routinely now and it's not difficult. Being able to use the internet transforms lives by giving instant access to a seemingly endless supply of services, knowledge and entertainment.

Most people now use a smartphone (mobile phone that can access the internet), tablet or computer. Government and other organisations are moving rapidly to making services only accessible via the internet. Universal Credit is already one benefit that can only be applied for online.

So getting online makes good sense. Here are just a few of the things you can do:

- keep in touch with family and friends worldwide
- read books, newspapers and magazines
- listen to the radio, and watch films and TV
- manage bank accounts, receive payment and settle bills
- plan travel and book tickets
- make GP and hospital appointments
- develop new hobbies, like researching your family tree
- shop around for the best deals - often only available to online customers
- find out about almost anything.

You will need to use a smartphone, tablet or computer BUT you do not have to own one: all local libraries offer free use of computers connected to the internet.

If you do want to buy a smartphone or computer, specialist high street retailers will help you choose a device to suit your needs and can advise on internet connection options (broadband or Wi-Fi). Several companies provide internet access and broadband package deals at a monthly cost (usually on a 12 month contract).

Local free or low-cost training and support including guidance on internet security is readily available throughout our borough, as are courses for people who are not new to computers and want to learn new skills. Scroll on down to see courses, tasters, drop-in sessions and workshops, with trainers' details.

Always, before going along, contact the trainer for their latest information and let them know if there's a particular device you want help with.

NOTES

- Wi-Fi: Residents of our borough can have 30 minutes of free Wi-Fi and pay £5 per day for unlimited Wi-Fi: for more information visit www.richmond.gov.uk/Wi-Fi .
- Housing Associations (e.g. RHP and PA Housing) sometimes arrange computer training for their tenants
- The Council's booklet It's Never Too Late to Get Online is available free from libraries.
